DRUG ON MONGOLIA.

In spite of the careful search for pium made on the Mongolia by cusoms officers in San Francisco, resulting in the discovery of 213 tins of the contraband product, it appears that only part of it was discovered, and the steamer is taking back across the Pa-cific about four hundred and twelve tins of the drug. It appears that the original amount of opium placed aboard the steamer consisted of about tins of the drug. It appears that the original amount of opium placed aboard the steamer consisted of about aboard the steamer consisted of about 255 tins, of which 213 were unearthed by the customs officers in San Francisco. Four hundred and twelve tins were not discovered, and, as the opium men got "cold feet" when the customs officers began to search and watch that nothing was known about it.

Automobile No. 883, operated by automobile No. 719 driven by the Chain front of Wall, Nichols company's store on King street. The front of the carry was damaged when the machine ran the steamer so closely, it was decided not to run the risk of landing the drug this trip, but to allow it to remain in its hiding place until a better opportunity might present itself for landing

In this connection, it may be noted that The Advertiser published the fact that there was ten thousand dollars worth of opium aboard the Mongolia river in Aala Park shortly and Kim, a natwo days before the 213 tins of opium were discovered aboard the steamer in San Francisco.

But One Serious Accident Breaks Perfection of Celebration of July Fourth.

With the exception of the drowning of George Meyer at Wnikiki no serious accident marred the pleasure of the great Fourth. Several minor accidents happened during the day but none were

At Kapiolani Park, where there was an immense crowd or perhaps 20,000 persons enjoying the military events and racing, not a single serious accident was reported by the police. The only accident there happened to Manu el Freitas, a Portuguese boy ten years old, whose barefoot feet were lacerated by the horse of K. Osborn, an aide to the committee, who was assisting in the committee, who was assisting in keeping the crowds off the tracks.

The boy was injured during the foot races. He was removed to the Queen's hospital in the police automobile which happened to be near by. While painful, it is believed his feet are not seriously believed.

Sheriff Jarrett had perfected such excellent arrangements for the policing of the park that it is due to his worl and that of the mounted and foot of ficers that the events were held with out serious accidents.

Captain of Police Kahanamoku and Acting Chief of Detectives John Kel-lett report that all the events of the day were carried out in a remarkable manner. They say that such handling of a big crowd has perhaps never been done in a city on the mainland the size of Honolulu without a single serious accident.

The worst accident reported during the day was to Edward Keff, an em-ploye of the Pacific Engineering Com-pany, who was painfully injured while riding on the fender of a Waikiki car at Pawan Junction about haif past ten yesterday morning. The ear was over-crowded at the time of the accident so Keff was riding on the fender. The car on which Keff was riding backed up 200 feet from Artesian to Alexander street, where a Wainlan car happened to be crossing and before it could be stopped, backed up into the rear of the Waikiki car and struck Keff. Besides an injury to his back, Keff's leg was broken. The fender was demografic. damaged.

Captain Kahanamoku of the police department happened to be on the Wal-kiki car and he immediately put in a call to the police station for the patron which removed the injured man physician's office where his wounds were treated, a sampan aglowing with electric lights, with a great American flag blazing from between its spars, floated out be-fore the glowing hulk of the Kaimilon across the harbor and back again. A hundred yards behind it floated another, equally brilliant. The two went by in silent procession. Not a sound was heard or any sign of life seen even when Boman candles spurted from the sterns and bows.

Up on Punchbowl,

Seven hundred gallons of oil, a hundred and fifty pounds of saltpetre, a couple of hundred pounds of green fire, and about the same amount of red fire, were burned along the rim of Punch-bowl crater last night, making a plenty of illumination for those who were in the immediate vicinity of the doings, but, according to reports from below the results seemed to consist largely of

Through the courtesy of Major Neville and Lieutenant Johnson of the Marine Corps, two signal men were sent to the scene of activity at the crater to receive instructions and reports from observers at Camp Very. They were equipped with a field acetylene signal lantern which was operated with an ordinary telegraph key and read the signals flashed from a similar apparatus at Camp Very. Some intimation of the results was thus conveyed to those on the erater who were striving so valiantly to make a flare when the valiantly to make a flare when the order "Do something!" was flashed to the signal men at the crater. It was immensely discouraging. Not only the immensely discouraging. Not only the force regularly employed to keep the fires and pump a-going were working with might and main, but Marston Campbell, J. Meanwhile Engineer Friesell was exploding at intervals giant powder cartridges, which made a little noise up there, but the detonation lost itself in the vast azure vault above before getting so far as the city.

The elaborately planned blazing gusher of petroleum was a failure largely on account of the high wind which was blowing, for, instead of spouting sell into the air under the pressure of
